

ABOUT THIS — AND — ABOUT THAT

By OLIVER GEDEIST

COULD BE.—Item from National Conservation Bureau:
"I'm off for game and sport today,"
The fearless hunter said.
But he was careless with his gun
And bagged himself instead.

FRONT PAGE.—Most newspaper men have often wished several front pages could be put on. Reason: so many items are worth while. So often only a limited number can be put on the front. However, as long as advertisers in magazines and newspapers are satisfied with PAYING for their advertisements on the inside, we will just go along and put on the first page what we can. We'll wear a board just soft enough not to break toes and just hard enough to protect our body.

ANNIVERSARIES.—It's a happy thought, to have anniversaries. An anniversary ties participants to the past—to the happiness of the past, and is a reminder of the golden beauties of earlier days, the thrills tempered by time, the beauty in words spoken yesterday—words which too often seem unnatural after years of association. If an anniversary brings back in spoken words the "soft" appreciations which so easily rolled from the tongue in earlier days, the anniversary is a huge success. Where love abides and man and woman are not afraid to speak in beautiful words appreciation for the other, heaven has its foundation. Yes, anniversaries are highly desirable.

THERE IS AN "END."—In tumultuous living is too much forgetfulness. We forget that oversight is not necessarily the end of something. Many ends are not really such. Affection need never end. But we make ourselves think, sometimes, that it is ended. That's because we have lost sight of the motivating force of human life. This thought came to me while looking at my flower garden the other morning. It's not really mine; it belongs to the Rock Island. It is around the Englewood station in Chicago. Through the summer, morning after morning, and often at the end of the day, I have walked in my garden at the station, apprehending the beauty of the flowers. This morning, they were beaten down. Some bravely held up their heads, petals partly gone, luster vanished. Looks like the end of my garden is coming soon.

BUT THEY'LL BE BACK.—There will be an "end" to my flower garden for THIS YEAR. Then my flowers will come back. I shall have to wait until spring, of course. But there are pretty memories. When I shovel snow this winter, shivering and freezing (why am I not rich enough to go south?), I shall be thinking of my flowers, and of how lovely they will adorn Spring when Happy Sun comes back to stir the sap of earth and sprig and tree and bring back my flowers so again I may walk among them.

MEMORIES RETURN.—In human life it is the same. Only too often we forget, in the hard ways of life, the beauty once known. And the beautiful words, the heart-warming words, once so meaningfully effective, have faded away, have given way to the careless word, the ugly word, the hurting word, along with indifference. So, with anniversaries, like Friendly Sun's bringing back the glory temporarily "ended" by Winter's Withering Blasts, the renewal for a few hours of some of the tender thoughts of the past may rekindle warm love and make more lovely the path down which two may travel to the "end" of time.

THINKING.—Many failures in life are the result of inattention to the thing which makes Genus Homo different from animal life in general. That thing is THOUGHT. Even a little THOUGHT would remind us that as beauty fades from our souls coarseness replaces the beauty. Where there is not reasonable information, ignorance follows. Where there is not active interest in the varied affairs of humanity, education slumps. Where there is not interest in human happiness of the other partner, there ugliness follows. It's all tied in together. That's so whether we like it or dislike it.

LOOKING UPWARD.—The psalmist was not looking DOWN into a valley when he poetically cried out, "I look unto the hills, whence cometh my strength." Neither was he looking into the "fleshpots" and into dens of ribaldry. He was looking UP to the sun-kissed peaks, at the bold, magnificence of sturdy mountains. There he found inspiration. In human, family, relations, as we look up to the noble peaks of love we secure a firm foundation for carving out the way which we shall travel. Blessings upon marriage anniversaries and upon their observance.

Yunker-Hentsch

Miss Dorothy Yunker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Yunker of Orland, became the bride of Walter Hentsch, son of Mrs. Fred Hentsch of Mokena, at a ceremony Sunday afternoon, at 2:30, in St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church in Mokena. The Rev. William Riemann, pastor, officiated.

The double-ring ceremony was employed amid decorations of baskets of colored gladiolas, with palms decorating the altar.

Participants were Miss Marjorie Yunker, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, in a blue marquisette gown, carrying a bouquet of red carnations. Bridesmaids were Miss Lois Mancke of Mokena in a pink gown, carrying blue carnations; Miss Georgia Bennett of Mokena in a green gown, carrying pink carnations; Miss Joanne Homering of Orland in a yellow gown, carrying orchid carnations; and Mrs. Edward Bennett of Orland in an orchid gown, carrying yellow carnations.

Ervin Hentsch, brother of the groom, was best man. Attendants were Donald Yunker, Melvin Krapp, Harold Baker, and Richard Pihl, and Norman Yunker and William Teske as ushers.

Ring bearer was little Norman Yunker, four-year-old nephew of the bride, who carried a white satin heart-shaped pillow bearing the rings. Flower girl was Nancy Long of Mokena, four-year-old cousin of the groom, in a little blue marquisette gown, carrying a small bouquet of baby tea roses.

The bride was dressed in a white broadcloth chignon gown with a long train and wore a love bird fingertip veil and carried a bouquet of white roses.

Miss Marian Andres of Tinley Park sang "Always" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Roy Kropp at the organ.

A wedding supper was served to about 150 guests in the church basement.

The reception was held in the Orland high school gymnasium, with about 600 guests participating.

Mr. and Mrs. Hentsch will make their home in Mokena.

The V-Eighters are rolling along. The victims this time were the Bankers. The scores of the Banker team indicated that they were demoralized and awed by the surging force of the V-Eighter team.

The Mokena Oilers continued to travel at a fast clip when they won two games from the Paperhangers. The Oilers have won eight out of the last nine games and are in second place.

The battle to leave the cellar position held by the Robins and Smokers won won by the Smokers when they captured two games, "Chuck" Liess of the Robins rolled a high game of 214, which helped his team to take one game from the Smokers.

A $1,500 fire Monday destroyed the tool house back of the residence of Paul Karlson, Woodland circle, North Circle drive, near Wolf road, the result, it was stated, of two children playing with matches.

The alarm was given at 12 o'clock, when Wilbur Teske of Mokena, standing at Swanberg's, Wolf road, observed black smoke rising from the building. The Mokena fire department responded and the fire was extinguished before the building was consumed. However, the damage was great enough to cause a total loss.

Mr. Karlson had approximately $500 worth of tools in the building, along with two barrels of oil. All were destroyed.

The children, it was stated, were playing in the yard, and it is assumed that burning rubbish lighted by the children ignited the building.

Mr. Karlson was working across the street from his home and knew nothing of the fire until the alarm had been given.

3 Badly Injured In Route 45 Crash

Two New Yorkers and a Peru (Illinois) woman were taken to Oak Forest infirmary Monday afternoon, all unconscious, following a crash at the junction of routes 45 and 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Ortega of 996 Tiffany street, New York City, driving a Studebaker car, and Mrs. Rose Ploper of 1528 Second street, Peru, driving a Packard, were the victims of the crash.

Cook county police called to the accident had little information, since neither of the injured persons has been able to talk.

Persons in the vicinity of the accident stated that the Packard was going at high speed, but police could not verify this. A light pole was broken by the impact of the tumbling cars.

Mokena is to have its main business street well-lighted when plans recently completed by the village board have matured.

At a recent special meeting, the village fathers made a contract for the installation of 21 new lights, to be erected on the north side of Front street, beginning at Dunham's store and continuing to Wolf road, spaced 75 feet apart.

SPECIAL TRAIN TO TAKE FARMERS TO GIANT DISPLAY IN CHICAGO OCTOBER 21

Several thousand persons from Orland, Tinley, New Lenox, Frankfort, and Mokena are expected to attend a giant display of farm equipment Tuesday, October 21, at Soldier's field, Chicago.

Announcement has been made by A. J. Heusner Garage, Goodson, New Lenox Lumber, and Schneadeke, dealers for International Harvester company, of the affair, with an anticipated 30,000 Illinoisans in attendance.

The event is the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the manufacturing company, which is to receive a plaque in commemoration of the event from Governor Dwight Green.

The company has announced that 2,000 pieces of various kinds of farm machinery produced by it since its inception will be shown, along with "things to come" in the next two years.

A twine mill will be in operation to show farmers the process of manufacturing twine, and a foundry going full blast to show how iron is converted into manufacturing articles.

Special trains will be used to convey farmers to the celebration. The only expense to farmers, according to the announcement, is railroad fare, $1.27 from Joliet, round trip, and 75 cents from Tinley Park. Tinley Park will be the only stop between Joliet and Chicago.

Mokena Man, 3 Others Hurt In Auto Crash

Harold Warning of Mokena, was slightly injured in an automobile crash Sunday night on route 6, one-half mile north of 167th street and Wolf road.

Three others were injured at the same time, one seriously. Charles Matthews, 36, of Harvey, suffered from several fractured ribs and possible internal injuries, according to Silver Cross hospital reports, in addition to a laceration over his left eye and a left-ankle contusion.

The other two, Stanley Schnering, 21, and Maurice Valdarski, 33, both of Harvey, escaped serious injury. They with Warning were given treatment and went home.

Jack Gorman of Orland Park took Warning, Matthews, and Schnering to the hospital, while state police took Valdarski to the hospital, it was said.

Concussion Comes After Fall On Orland Skate Rink

Kathleen Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. Olson, Tinley Park, sustained a slight brain concussion Thursday night of last week when she fell while skating in Orland Park school gymnasium.

The concussion was received after she fell, when a skater, unable to stop in the short distance, kicked the girl on the head.

The victim of the accident is getting along well, it was reported, needing only a few days' rest before resuming activities.

Hugh Deadmore Has Accident

Hugh Deadmore of Mokena had the thumb of his left hand badly damaged Monday when a filled barrel fell on his hand while at work. He was taken to Silver Cross hospital, where the end of the thumb, almost severed, was restored with a number of stitches. He remained in the hospital for several days.

The expression to "double in brass" dates from the time when almost every American village and town took great pride in its local band. Employers advertised for workmen who could also play a band instrument or "double in brass," the World Book Encyclopedia relates.

FRED UTHES' GRANDSON DIES IN FALL FROM PORCH

A happy hour of playing Monday ended in tragedy for the little grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Uthes of Orland Park, Harold Wymer, Jr., aged three, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wymer Sr., of Blue Island.

He, with two other little playmates, were playing on the third floor porch of a neighbor in Blue Island, floating streamers to the ground. It is supposed Harold lost his balance and fell to the cement ground. His mother happened to look out of her window and saw him lying still on the ground and went to him, taking him into her home and trying to revive him. Help was called and he was pronounced dead. Subbed for Bottino Through War Years

August Maue, a native of Mokena, former Will county superintendent of schools and one of the outstanding educators in this county, died Sunday at his home in Wilmington. He was 81.

Although Mr. Maue had been in frail health since his second retirement in 1945, he was not confined to his bed until a few days ago.

Mr. Maue pioneered education in the county and devoted most of his life to teaching and to school work.

While county superintendent he introduced many practices into the school office and the schools that are followed today.

His memory will be perpetuated through the histories of Will county and Illinois which he wrote and which were published 15 to 20 years ago. These books now are used as texts in the schools of the county.

Maue's history of Will county is in two illustrated volumes and was printed by the Historical Publishing company of Topeka and Indianapolis 19 years ago.

Mr. Maue served at the head of the schools in the county from 1919 to 1935. He was elected four times for four-year terms. In that time he introduced the school manual which is printed each year to aid teachers and school administrators. The 1947-48 manual, which came off the press two weeks ago, is dedicated to Mr. Maue.

During the war, when County Superintendent Louis F. Bottino joined the marine corps, Mr. Maue ended his retirement to become acting superintendent. He served in that capacity from 1942 through 1945.

A son of the late Daniel and Sarah Maue, pioneer Will county residents, he was born near Mokena in Frankfort township on August 27, 1866.

After attending the schools in the vicinity, he won a scholarship to Adrian college at Adrian, Mich., completing his studies there, he returned to Will county and taught in the Crete schools for one year, after which he enrolled at the University of Illinois. He was graduated from the state university in 1891.

Following his graduation, Mr. Maue served as principal of the school at Elwood. There he met and married Carrie Lineberger. He left there after one year and served as principal of the Mokena school for a year. In 1893 he came to Joliet and entered the public grade school system. He remained with the system for 26 years, resigning when he was elected as county superintendent in 1919.

While with the Joliet school system Mr. Maue served as the head of the Broadway school, the Eastern avenue school, and as principal of the Washington school.

For a great number of years Mr. Maue was prominent in the affairs of the Richards Street church, transferring to the Methodist church at Wilmington when he moved there last year. He also held membership in the Mt. Joliet Lodge, A. F. & A. M.

Mr. Maue lived in Joliet from 1893 until June of last year, when he moved to 520 South Joliet street in Wilmington.

Besides his wife he is survived by a brother, Albert of Grant Park; two sisters, Mrs. William J. Cleveland of Martin, Mich., and Mrs. Charles Schumhl of Joliet.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Haris funeral home with the Rev. Glen Dunbar officiating. Burial was in the family lot in Oakwood cemetery, Wilmington.

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper diet and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

The stage for Benson's Gulch was ready to leave Tucson. Gilbert Bradley hurried up the dusty street and climbed aboard just as the driver whipped the horses and the coach lurched forward.

Once settled comfortably in his seat, he casually took inventory of his fellow passengers. Besides himself, the coach contained two people—a girl and a man.

The girl's eyes reflected the color of the violets which trimmed her bonnet. Her dress was of gray linen. Beneath the brim of the bonnet, several curls of auburn hair escaped to flutter in the draft from the partly open window.

The first thing Gil noticed about the man was his agate-hard yellow eyes. They were set close together under thick black eyebrows. The man was heavily built, with huge shoulders and hands. He wore twin gun belts crossed at his waist and the black handles of his six-guns protruded from open holsters.

"Since we're all going to Benson's Gulch, we'd just as well make ourselves acquainted," he said, flicking his yellow eyes over Gil and then resting them on the girl. "I'm Mort Cass, mayor of Benson's Gulch."

The girl's pale face turned even whiter. Her lips quivered ever so slightly as she looked with loathing straight into the yellow eyes. "I'm Virginia Holmes. My brother wrote me about you shortly before he died."

The two had forgotten Gil's presence.

"I was mighty sorry, ma'am, when your brother met his untimely end," said Cass.

"Sorry," the girl flashed. "William was fighting you and your corrupt friends with his newspaper. He more than hinted that if an accident befell him, you would be behind it. I haven't the slightest doubt that you killed my brother."

The yellow eyes narrowed grimly. "Some of those words are mighty harsh, ma'am."

"I shall print some just as harsh," said Virginia. "You see, you didn't stop his paper. I am going to Benson's Gulch to publish it."

Virginia Holmes settled back into her seat, turning her body to face the window.

Gilbert Bradley had been about to introduce himself, but he saw that neither of his companions was interested. Gil would have been the first to admit that he wasn't an impressive figure. He was slight, barely five and a half feet tall. His gray eyes were mild and his clothes marked him as a newcomer to the desert country.

The trio rode in silence to Benson's Gulch.

Arrival of the stage was evidently an event in the town. The group of men gathered for the occasion reminded Gil of a similar band which assembled each evening to watch the train go through the Ohio village where he had spent his youth.

A nearby cafe beckoned and Gil went in to have a cup of coffee before going to a hotel. The waiter had barely slid his brimming cup down the counter, when one of the onlookers from the stage depot took the next stool. He, too, ordered coffee and took a deep drink before turning to Gil.

"Haven't I seen you some place before?" he asked. "You look real familiar to me."

"I don't recall meeting you," answered Gil. "I'm new to this section of the country."

"It's a good country, but I can't say too much for this town."

"Don't discourage me like that, when I've only been in town ten minutes," smiled Gil. "What's wrong with the town?"

The other grunted. "You've met

Cass was proud of his record as a gunman and a fighter. He often boasted that whoever could lick him either on the draw or with fists, could be the next mayor. Mort Cass wouldn't stay in a town where he had been whipped.

Two men he had bested at gun-play were asleep on Boot Hill, at the edge of town. The only man who had ever fought him barehanded might as well have joined them. His broken bones had not mended properly after the beating he had received and his six-foot body was shrunken and misshapen.

Virginia and Gil were making their way across the street one day to dine at the Western hotel. Cass swaggered out and moved toward them.

"Well, if it ain't the pretty school-marm turned editor and her pesty faced Don John."

Anger seethed through Gil, but he couldn't quite help being amused at the flagrant mispronunciation. He

"Sorry," the girl flashed. "William was fighting you and your corrupt friends with his newspaper."

our mayor. If you don't already know, you'll soon find out."

By the time Gil had been in town two weeks he had made friends with Virginia Holmes and incurred the enmity of Mort Cass for that reason. Cass had learned that Gil was in Arizona because of his health and he never failed to make a remark about "lungers" when he was certain to be overheard by the smaller man. Gil found that not many of the townspeople liked Cass; but, one and all, they feared and obeyed him.

It was common gossip in Benson's Gulch that Cass had either fired the shot that killed William Holmes, or ordered it fired. The body of the young editor had been found in his shop one morning. A group of wild cowboys from a Cass-controlled ranch had been drinking the night before and done a lot of wild shooting in the town's main street. One of the bullets had broken the glass window of the newspaper office and lodged in the owner. The coroner had given a verdict of accidental death. As Cass was all-powerful in Benson's Gulch, no one openly questioned the verdict.

could smell liquor on Cass' breath. The man had been drinking heavily, but was far from drunk. He pushed between Gil and Virginia.

"Run along, tenderfoot," he said. "I'll take Virginia to dinner and see if I can't change her opinion of me a bit."

He started to take the girl's arm. She drew back and slapped him full across the face. He started menacingly toward her.

"I'll learn you to slap Mort Cass," he said.

Gil tapped him on the right shoulder. As Cass turned, Gil drove a hard left into his face. The crowd, which was beginning to gather, gave a startled gasp. Cass charged at Gil and for a moment it looked as if he would pummel him into the ground. Gil's rapid foot work saved him. His weaving body made a poor target for the larger man's bear-like blows.

Cass soon realized that this fight was not going to result in the easy victory he had expected. He stepped back and warily eyed his adversary. Then again he charged at Gil, who eluded him.

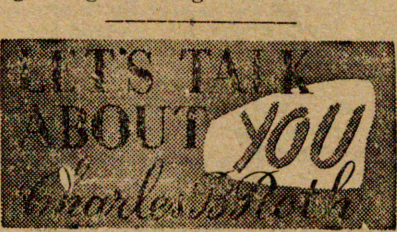

Wild cheers rang from the crowd later, when Gil stood with widespread legs over the sprawled figure of Mort Cass.

"Oh, what a lucky punch," someone roared, as bystanders rushed to congratulate Gil.

"Lucky punch, nothing," cried a deep voice.

Gil turned to face the man who had drunk coffee with him soon after his arrival in Benson's Gulch.

"I remember you now," he said, taking Gil's hand in a firm grasp. "I saw you fight once in Chicago. Recall the night you knocked out Motzi in the third round. You're Brady, once holder of the world's lightweight boxing crown."

Don't Live a Self-Centered Life

Nine times in ten when you find a person who isn't getting as much out of his life as he should, who wants more friends than he has, who isn't altogether happy with his existence, you'll find, if you probe deeply enough, that that person is too self-centered.

Although they don't know it, usually this condition of being self-centered starts in childhood.

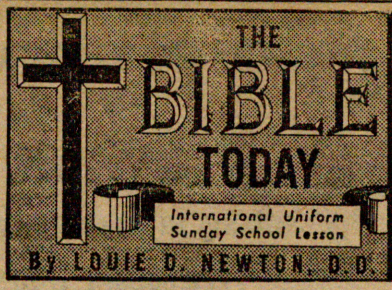

As a child the person was babied by his parents. He received so much notice that when he left home he felt letdown, neglected, disillusioned when the world didn't treat him as his parents had. So he retired in a shell.

In one office I know there was a girl who didn't have a friend. For three months she had worked there. Not one of the other girls had paid the slightest attention to her. One day she came to me, broke down, cried, said she was miserable. "They don't pay any attention to me," she sobbed. "Do you pay any attention to them?" I asked.

"No—no, I don't."

"Then that's the trouble. If you want to be friendly with these girls you have to show them that you are friendly with them."

If you are living a self-centered life now, the best thing for you to do is live more with other people and show them that they are important to you.

SCRIPTURE: Hebrews 1-2; 8:6-13; Matthew 3:16, 17; John 14:5-11.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalms 40:1-8.

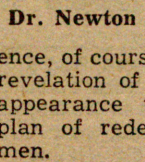

Better Revelation

Lesson for October 5, 1947

WITH Sunday's lesson we turn into another field of Bible study for the concluding quarter of the year—messages from the Epistles, other than those of Paul.

This lesson, and the next two, are from the Epistle to the Hebrews—one of my favorite books in the Bible. The passages of study for this lesson are Hebrews 1-2; 8:6-13; with kindred passages in Matthew 3:16, 17 and John 14:5-11. Suggested devotional reading for the lesson is Psalms 40:1-8.

Dr. Newton The title of the lesson has reference, of course, to Christ—the better revelation of the Son of God in his appearance to bring the father's plan of redemption nigh unto all men.

The Father's Son

"GOD, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by his son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also he made the worlds," chapter 1, verses 1 and 2.

"And Jesus, when he was baptized, went up straightway out of the water; and, lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him; and lo a voice from heaven, saying, This is my beloved son, in whom I am well pleased," Matthew 3:16, 17.

Could there be a more beautiful and impressive manifestation of God's acknowledgment of Jesus Christ as his son?

Love Is the Key

IN THIS better revelation of Jesus Christ, we find that love is the key that opens the door into the brightly lighted room. "The father loved the son, and hath given all things into his hand," John 3:35.

Love is the key. It is ever so with all the revelations which God makes of himself to his trusting children.

And this revelation of God in Jesus Christ carries the further truth that "all things" have been placed in the hands of our blessed Saviour. We read elsewhere that "all things consist in him," which means that all things hold together in him—the world itself. Jesus said, "All power hath been given unto me, in heaven and on earth."

It is not a picture of passive love, but a picture of perfect love in action, with all things committed to his administration. Again we can sing, "This is our father's world."

Christ Reveals God

NOT only does Christ reveal himself, but also the father, for they are one. Reading now into the second chapter of Hebrews, we find these words: "God also bearing them (angels) witness, both with signs and wonders, and with divers miracles, and gifts of the Holy Ghost, according to his own will."

It is God's own will that he be revealed, and he must do the revealing. Turn to John 14:5-11, where we read again that revealing incident when Jesus patiently reassured Thomas and Philip, declaring "He that hath seen me hath seen the father."

The better revelation of God in Jesus Christ brings us far beyond the revelations of God in the Old Testament, dramatic and impressive as they were.

A New Covenant

THE better revelation means "a more excellent ministry," because Jesus Christ has now become "the mediator of a better covenant, which was established upon better promises," Hebrews 8:6.

The first covenant was imperfect, because it was manifest through humanity. Only the perfect son of the perfect God could manifest the better covenant. Jeremiah foresaw the better covenant. See Jeremiah 31:31-34.

Now that the better revelation is our portion, what shall be our response? One cannot be excused today by claiming ignorance of God's proffered salvation unto all men. He has revealed his love in the death of his only begotten son on the cross. He has revealed his love in abounding and forbearing mercies.

"How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?"

Register of Purebreds
A million and a quarter purebred farm animals were registered by the various associations last year. These included 835,000 cattle, 280,000 pigs, 117,000 sheep and 28,000 horses.

Many Miles of Fishing
There are more than 70,000 miles of fishing streams in the 161 national forests which cover 150 million acres of land in 40 states of the United States.

Plucking Wings Faster
A mechanical poultry-wing strip-per strips the flight feathers of chicken wings at the rate of 600 to 800 an hour and of turkeys at about half that speed. The machine has been placed on the market.

Intercollegiate Billiards
Harvard and Yale played the first intercollegiate billiard match at Worcester, Mass., in 1880. Harvard won 800 to 721. The game was four-ball English billiards.

HOMER

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lindstrom are the parents of a daughter born Tuesday, September 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Rowley and sons were Sunday dinner guests in the home of Miss Virginia Russell of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carlisle and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mobias were week end guests in the Jacob McGuire home. Mr. and Mrs. Mobias will leave soon for their home in Oceanside, Calif.

Miss Barbara Haley was recently awarded the magazine prize by the local women's club for receiving the highest grade among eighth grade pupils in Homer township this year.

Mrs. Helen Rowley, Mrs. A. L. Sproat, and Willard Rowley, Sr., attended the funeral of the Rev. William Steele at Malta, Wednesday.

Mr. Steele was a former Homer church pastor; he preached his second sermon at the Malta Congregational church Sunday and was stricken with paralysis, which caused his death Sunday night. He is survived by his wife, Iva, and one son, Roger, who is attending school at DeKalb.

The Women's Missionary society served supper to a group of 35 men from Morgan Park Presbyterian church Saturday evening.

Mrs. Ira Anderson attended a farewell party and shower at Community Center Foundation Monday evening in honor of Mrs. Frances Bacon, who is leaving this week to become the wife of John Bonar of Three Rivers, Mich. Mrs. Bacon has lived at the Foundation as dietitian and cook for the past five years.

Mrs. R. W. Carlson accompanied the members of her bridge club to the Spingling wheel near LaGrange for luncheon Thursday.

The Carlson family went to the Joe Vancil home, Downers Grove, for dinner Thursday evening and remained as guests over Friday and Saturday.

At the meeting of the Missionary society in the Frank Hartman home, Thursday, plans were made and committees appointed for the chicken supper and fancy work sale to be held at Homer church Thursday evening, October 23. Mrs. Wray White presided at the business session.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bump attended the funeral of Mrs. Ethel Mae Lucky in Joliet Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gorham were recent visitors in the home of her brother, Adolph Haley, at Goodings Grove.

Adelbert Rowley, brother of C. G. Rowley, whose home is in Aurora, Ore., is spending several days with relatives here and in Lockport.

George Brankley, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Brankley, who graduated from Purdue in June, will enter Harvard college this fall. Joe Brankley, his brother, has resumed his studies at University of Illinois.

Mrs. Merritt Cagwin, who celebrated her birthday September 15, had as her guests that day her sisters, Mrs. Bell Storm, Mrs. C. G. Rowley, Mrs. Fred Kopelman, and Mrs. Henry Rodgers.

Miss Augusta Hanks, who was found lying unconscious in the yard of her home last Monday by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Close of Lockport, is in a serious condition at Silver Cross hospital, suffering from a paralytic stroke. It has been established beyond doubt that the aged woman was not a victim of foul play, as was at first reported.

Engagement Announced

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss June Milton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Milton of Homer township, to Jerome J. Paddock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Paddock, also of Homer, has been announced by her parents.

The marriage will take place Saturday afternoon, October 18, at 2:30 o'clock at Homer church, with the Rev. Harold M. Finley officiating. Ceremony and reception to be open to the public, it was stated. The reception will be held in the Milton home immediately following the ceremony.

IT CAN HAPPEN HERE

Accidents aren't discerning. They can happen to anyone, warns the National Conservation Bureau, recalling a recent home mishap suffered by Helen Hayes, stage and screen star.

Miss Hayes slipped in her shower and clutched at a porcelain grip on the wall. The grip broke and its jagged stub cut her palm and right forearm deeply. A physician took ten stitches and Miss Hayes missed a performance of her play "Happy Birthday."

GO SLOWER, LIVE LONGER

Speeding was the greatest single cause for motor vehicle deaths during 1946, according to the National Conservation Bureau. Thirty-one out of every 100 drivers in fatal accidents were violating speed regulations. Even more were actually exceeding safe and sane speeds, the bureau points out, because when pavements are slippery with rain or ice or when traffic is congested the safe speed is far below the limit allowed by law. "Be Wise—temperize," the bureau warned drivers.

Kenny Polio Clinics
Expand in Illinois

The appointment of Walter L. Gregory, former president of Chicago Civil Service, to the national board of directors of the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation has been announced by Rodney H. Brandon, Illinois chairman of the polio organization. Mr. Brandon, also a member of the national board, said that Mr. Gregory's first job in his new capacity would be to help organize an executive committee for the area comprised of Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, and Wisconsin.

He stated that it would be the responsibility of the regional group to provide treatment for polio victims in the four states through the establishment of Sister Kenny clinics. He also said that his group was now engaged in expanding the recently opened clinic in Centerville to 65-bed capacity through the addition of a 35-bed wing. Next on the foundation's Illinois program, he said, was the establishment by early next summer of a 100-bed Kenny clinic in Chicago.

DRINK? DON'T DRIVE

Twenty per cent of all automobile drivers involved in fatal accidents last year had been drinking and 23 per cent of all adult pedestrians killed had had one or several drinks, the National Conservation Bureau said today in its oft-repeated warning against mixing liquor and travel. Memorize and remember the slogan: "If you drink don't drive. If you drive don't drink."

Vets May Get Free
Certified Documents

Under a little publicized law passed by the last general assembly, veterans, their dependents, and veterans' counseling agencies may now receive certified copies of public records without charge when the papers are needed to obtain benefits.

The only thing the veteran or his dependent has to do is to make the request in writing to the proper official. He must state that the document is to be used in obtaining benefits and must forward postage if the paper is to be sent him by mail.

The law provides that these certified copies must be furnished to any accredited veterans organization, the Illinois Veterans commission, the Veterans administration, and the veteran or his dependent. Application should be made to the Illinois Veterans commission, either in Joliet or Blue Island and assistance will be given any veteran or his dependent in obtaining copies of public records or any other benefit to which they are entitled.

DANGEROUS JOBS SAFER

You seldom hear of accidents occurring while men are actually engaged in correcting some extremely hazardous condition. This is because, says the National Conservation Bureau, the men are aware of the danger involved and are alerted to it. In most cases they have viewed the general setup from a safe distance and planned a safe procedure before undertaking the work. The small jobs, where workers are careless, or take chances, are the killers, the Bureau warns. Be alert—take care—stay alive!

Replace FRAYED Cords NOW!

Puppies aren't the only ones who can harm themselves with worn-out electric cords. The entire family, from infants to adults, are endangered by worn-out wiring.

Exposed wires are often the cause of blown fuses, wasted electricity and short circuits. Check your home for this common hazard and eliminate it.

Safe, adequate wiring is again possible after wartime shortages:

You no longer have to "get by" with makeshift, inferior wiring—replace every frayed cord with a new one today. Educate each member of the family in this elementary safety rule—never yank an electric cord—handle only the plug when disconnecting from a wall socket.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

"It's Living That Counts"

I stole the title of this column from a magazine article that said a whole lot better than I can what farm and country life can mean.

We talk about farm profits, production, research, and mechanical improvements... but isn't it true, what we really value is the life country living offers us?... the chance to be close to our families and neighbors... children sharing in the chores... working with our own hands at a worthwhile job.

And country pleasures are simple: good talk at day's end, and a glass of mellow beer with friends... the companionship of man and wife, untroubled by distractions of the city... the mutual tolerance of one another's tastes—in choosing a friend, or a glass of beer, or a candidate for Governor.

Mind, I'm all for material improvements. But from where I sit, the real goodness of our country life is that spirit of tolerance, moderation, and good fellowship.

PICK YOUR CORN EARLY!

Dry It In Crib, with Behlen All-Steel
Ventilators and Tunnels

New, modern, fast way to dry corn. No more waiting for corn to dry in fields. Pick early, when mechanical pickers work best. Crib it, and let Behlen Ventilators and Tunnels dry corn faster than you ever dreamed possible.

GOODBYE TO CORN BORERS!

Agricultural colleges and experimental stations recommend picking early, to help control corn borers. You get your corn into cribs to dry, and shred or chop stalks and plow under before ground freezes, to kill the borers.

Behlen Tunnels not only ventilate, but are very handy for shelling. Just run sheller "drag" into tunnel, as at left. Pull out tunnel sections one by one. Corn drops onto conveyor belt. Saves hours of labor!

COME IN NOW!

Don't wait. We have Behlen All-Steel Ventilators and Corn Tunnels on hand now. But due to present industrial situation, we cannot promise we will get any more this fall. We strongly urge you to come in right away, while we are still able to supply you. Cost is less than for old-style wood ventilators.

FOXHOLE DREAMS COME TRUE

Marine Club Serves Living While Honoring War Dead

WNU Features.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—Many a foxhole dream comes true as marines and former marines gather in the congenial and swank atmosphere of the Marine Memorial club, which was established here a year ago as the only living memorial to the gallantry of all marines.

The lush surroundings of the Memorial club, located in a former swank hotel at Sutter and Mason streets in the heart of downtown San Francisco, are a far cry from the filth and deprivations of foxhole living, which was the lot of so many marines.

But it was the unappetizing PX rations, the warm beer and the generally stale candy bars munched in foxholes which are responsible for the Marine Memorial club. Profit accruing from these sales went to the post exchange fund, but in reality belongs to the marines who spent it. Usually such money is used to buy recreational equipment that Uncle Sam doesn't furnish. This time, however, marine headquarters in Washington felt that the money should be used in a way that would honor marines who died in combat by serving those who fought and lived.

The solution is the Marine Memorial club, where all members meet on an equal footing; where name, rank and serial number pull no weight; where the famed "esprit de corps" of the service enters into civilian living.

San Francisco was selected as the location for the club because so many marines passed through the Golden Gate on their way to the Pacific, felt at home here and wanted to return.

The man behind this club is the man who was behind the 21st regiment of the 3rd division in the battle for Hellzapoppin bridge on Bougainville island—Brig. Gen. Evan Orchard Ames (retired). The club is his baby. A fighting man himself, he has helped to make many a foxhole dream a reality by creating a club where marines can take it easy, have the shave and steam bath they once longed for, in an exclusive town club atmosphere.

For the men and women of the corps who did return, the club is unique in its exclusiveness, for only marines and civilian marines may belong. Their families, wives, parents (including Gold Star parents) and children over 21 are eligible for guest memberships. Old friends in other services once attached to a marine unit may have an associate membership. Marine identification serves as both dues and initiation fee.

In the Skytop room prodding the clouds, in the swimming pool 12 stories below and on all the floors in between, marines and former marines can relax and enjoy club life. All the facilities of a first-rate hotel are available for a very low tariff.

For travelers, there's a choice of 250 rooms fully equipped with all hotel facilities; for those who just want to relax after a hard day at the office or exercise before breakfast, there is the tiled swimming pool with water blue as the Mediterranean and not nearly as cold.

Three dining rooms, three cocktail lounges, a steam room, barber shop, library and writing room, and a ballroom provide all the facilities of a swank hotel. But, although it's a million dollar layout, a man can spend a little instead of a lot. The club is operated on the policy of many spending a little rather than a few spending a lot.

Dog Completes School With Perfect Record

McKEESPORT, PA.—Although aged and nearly blind, Spotty, a woolly black and white dog, left an almost unmatchable record behind when he was graduated from grammar school into retirement.

Providing a climax for the graduation exercises, Principal H. E. Remaley called Spotty to the stage after diplomas had been presented to all the pupils. Gingerly, the dog trotted up the steps to receive a Year diploma and a certificate of perfect attendance.

The dog trailed to school behind members of the Stanko family for 10 years. First he followed John, then Roselle and finally young Robert Stanko, who was graduated just a few minutes ahead of his master.

Street Names Confuse Tourists

NEW ORLEANS.—It's no wonder tourists are confused, although fascinated, by street names in New Orleans. The city has about 2,100 miles of streets and 1,100 street names.

Take Tchoupitoulas, for instance. It is the oldest street name in New Orleans and has been spelled officially 20 different ways.

Burgundy once was Craps street. Churches forced renaming of the LIVING MEMORIAL . . . Termed the only living memorial to military men, the Marine Memorial club in San Francisco offers congenial and lush club life to present and former members of the corps.

Country Doctor Remains Active At Age of 90

BURLINGAME, KAS.—One of the last of Kansas' horse-and-buggy doctors, 90-year-old Dr. F. E. Schenck hails modern medical techniques and the latest drugs but sadly recalls "the good old days."

When the venerable old doctor was in his early years of practice here, his use of horses often spared him some physical strain in an almost 24-hour daily schedule. His team, he recalls, could be trusted to take him home without guidance.

"That's one advantage we had over the present-day doctors," he maintains. "The team would just head for home and I could sleep during the ride."

Despite the weather, the hour or his advanced age, Dr. Schenck still will answer a call from any of the townsfolk. He has reduced his practice considerably and should cut it down more, but he says it's just habit for him to minister to the medical needs of the people of Burlingame.

The habit is so firmly entrenched, in fact, that Dr. Schenck has become an institution in this small Kansas town.

Some of the people he has brought into the world are babies nursing in their mother's arms. Others are more than 60 years old. Dr. Schenck doesn't have any idea how many births he has assisted.

"I do know," he says, "that I have brought the third generation of some families around here into the world."

A large man with good posture and firm voice, Dr. Schenck is partly bald but has a thick gray mustache. He keeps well posted on all new developments in the medical profession, his medical library being considered one of the largest in the country.

Advancements in medical techniques and development of new drugs will be responsible for an ever-increasing rise in the nation's health standards, he believes.

Evicted Takes House Along

HAGERSTOWN, MD.—When Jesse Young, a carpenter, received an eviction notice, he was not downcast. Instead, he went down to his basement and built himself a new house out of army surplus trunk crates.

In two months the story and a half dwelling was completed. Modeled after an English cottage, the house has two rooms and a bath downstairs with enough space to make rooms upstairs.

When moving day came, Young and a son, Frank, who is a mechanic, loaded the floors, walls and other parts of the new house onto a truck. It took two hours to put the house together, six more hours to apply the finishing touches.

Basin street, probably the most famous thoroughfare, once was renamed Saratoga street but citizens demanded the return to Basin street.

Compensation Claims Are Reduced

Veterans' administration reports that as of July 31, 1947, approximately 3,230,000 veterans and dependents of veterans were receiving compensation or pension payments at the rate of 145 million dollars per month.

Because of the increased efficiency of the administration, the backlog of World War II compensation and pension claims has been reduced from a peak of 661,000 cases at the beginning of 1946 to 90,000 pending cases as of July 31, 1947.

Of the living veterans on the rolls, 1,728,000 or 74.4 per cent are World War II veterans; 436,000 are World War I veterans; 114,000 are Spanish-American war veterans. Of the remainder, 88 are Civil war veterans; 829 are veterans of the Indian wars and 43,000 served only during peacetime.

The 907,300 dependents on the rolls include 407,000 dependents of deceased World War II veterans, the remainder being survivors of veterans of other wars, including 47 dependents of Mexican war veterans. The Mexican war ended 100 years ago and no veterans are alive today.

Questions and Answers

Q. My son-in-law was in the army air force from February 4, 1941, to December 1, 1945. While in service he was in the hospital for sometime and while stationed in California a forest fire raged and the army men were fighting this fire when my son-in-law broke his hip. He is having a great deal of trouble not only with his hip but with his feet, which the doctor says is caused from the hip. What I want to know is, is he entitled to medical attention from his service in the army and do you think he can be entitled to a pension?—Mrs. M. B., Deputy, Ind.

A. Your son-in-law certainly should apply to the nearest office of Veterans' administration for a disability rating. There appears to be no question but that his injury was in connection with his service in the army and from the information you give in the letter there would appear to be no reason why he should not be entitled to compensation.

Q. My father, a World War I veteran, died in June and I would like to go to college. Does the government help send deceased veterans' children to college?—W. N. J., Sheffield, Ala.

A. Insofar as I know educational training under the G.I. bill applies only to veterans of World War II and does not apply to children of veterans of either war.

Q. I have lost my terminal leave bond. Please tell me how to get it replaced. I have written the treasury department claims section but received no reply.—B. M. W., San Antonio, Tex.

A. The circumstances surrounding each individual instance of lost terminal leave bonds determine steps which should be taken. However, the best advice this column could give you would be to write to Marvin W. Wesley, chief of the division of loans and currency, treasury department, Washington 25, D. C., and give all information concerning the lost bond.

Q. I have been released from the army and am planning to work in a local shop here for five years and then go to college at night under the G.I. bill. Is this possible under the present law?—T. S., McCook, Nebr.

A. No. You cannot work for five years because education and training under the G.I. bill must begin within four years of July 25, 1947 and the program ends nine years from that date.

Q. My husband receives compensation because of World War I service. Will I receive a pension if he precedes me in death?—Mrs. G. A. L., Detroit, Mich.

A. If your husband dies from a disability proved to have been incurred in military or naval service, you may receive compensation. Or, if the death is from another cause and your income does not exceed $1,000 a year if childless, or $2,500 a year if with minor children, you may be eligible for a pension.

Q. Can you tell me the difference between compensation and pension claims with regard to veterans disability? I have two friends who are veterans of World War II, one of whom draws compensation and the other a pension.—Mrs. A. L. T., Tiffany, Ohio.

A. Veterans' administration says the term "compensation" is applied to awards based on service-connected disability or death while the term "pension" is used to designate non-service-connected awards as provided by law.

Know-How Counts

A manufacturer, unable to get a machine to run properly although his best mechanics had tried their skill on it, called in an expert to fix the machine. The expert came, looked and listened for about two minutes, tightened a certain screw, and the machine ran smoothly. The expert departed, leaving a bill for $50.

The manufacturer, astonished at such a price for five minutes' work, wrote and demanded an itemized statement. He received the following:

Tightening a screw . . . $.25
Knowing which screw to tighten . . . 49.75

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Put a thin coat of transparent shellac on your recipe cards or recipe book covers. This eliminates the possibility of getting grease marks on these much used kitchen items.

To avoid chipping your fine china when washing it use a kitchen towel or rubber mat in the bottom of the dish pan.

To keep an open radio free from dust, use the blower of the vacuum and blow away the dust before you begin to dust the room.

In choosing a paint color for a wall, it is well to remember that buff will blend with almost any other shade.

A boy's discarded express wagon and a bit of chicken wire on an iron frame make an incinerator that can be moved about easily as you gather and burn leaves.

When sewing by machine, check the tension of the thread on the bobbin and the spool to assure neat and even stitching.

Before taking hot muffins out of the oven, lay a dish towel over them for just a moment. When they are ready to take out, the steam will have loosened them so that they will readily fall out of the pan.

Put a small pan of water in the bottom of the oven when baking cakes and cookies. The moist heat improves the baking by making it rise better and prevents burning. Do not allow the water to boil dry.

Clothes dried slowly will always be whiter than those dried in a hurry.

PARKSIDE
Tinley Park's Newest Subdivision
OFFICE: 167th & Oak Park Avenue

This scientifically planned subdivision embodies the most progressive ideas of community development. The winding street plan permits maximum safety for children. There are no hidden corners or alleys. The minimum parcel of property is 60 feet in width. The unique business section with its enormous broad street allows a maximum of parking space.

The new features incorporated in Parkside assure high valuation for mortgage purposes and likewise enhanced future value as the subdivision develops. When completed some five hundred and fifty new families or 2200 new faces will reside in Tinley Park's "Parkside."

All progressively minded citizens of Tinley Park will be vitally interested in the progress of Parkside because of its beneficial effects to business as well as every citizen of the community.
